Tony,

We don't believe that it's appropriate for there to be any precondition to Canary Wharf providing substantiating documentation regarding its claims other than there being a confidentiality agreement in place that covers non-public documents and information relating to confidential commercial information. Once you confirm that is the only precondition, we will turn our attention to the confidentiality agreement. In that regard, we want to note that, since the documents that we are seeking relate to claims that were filed with the Bankruptcy Court in NY, any disputes regarding those claims and any related discovery would all be governed by the rules here. In light of that, we believe that it would be appropriate for the confidentiality agreement to be governed by NY law, and all disputes relating to the agreement adjudicated by the Bankruptcy Court.

Regards,

Richard

Richard

Following the email exchanges last week, I would be grateful if you could let me have an update as to you and your client's position on the taking up of a new lease and the draft confidentiality agreement which was sent to you on Friday. Rupert had mentioned to me that you were due to speak to him on Friday afternoon to discuss matters.

Would it be possible for you to get back to me today, so that we can get started on disclosure to Rupert in London tomorrow morning?

Thank you and regards.

Tony Briam
